Nasser Rejects U.S. Plan

Fighting Continues on Syrian Front

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Israel and Syria locked in large-scale combat on the ground and in the air today for the third straight day. Syria claimed six Israeli jets downed; the Israelis claimed two Syrian MIGs, and admitted the loss of one Israeli jet.

Israeli jets attacked Syrian army camps near Damascus for the second day in succession, and large-scale dogfights raged through the Syrian skies. Then Syria announced that Israeli tanks had crossed the cease-fire line on the Golan Heights.

"Violent fighting along the front line is still continuing," said Damascus Radio shortly after noon. "The enemy is throwing his armored units against our positions, and our forces are engaging them."

Syrian anti-aircraft fire tore a three-foot hole in the wing of an Italian DC8 jetliner as it flew 31,000 feet over Damascus, but the plane made a safe landing in Beirut and none of the 104 persons aboard was hurt. The Syrian hit, believed to be a missile, punctured a fuel tank containing more than 100 tons of aviation kerosene and knocked out the two port engines. Members of the crew said it was a "miracle" they were able to reach the Lebanese capital.

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser meanwhile rejected the new U.S. plan for Middle East peace, charging it would leave Israel in possession of the Golan Heights territory which it seized from Syria in the 1967 war.

The Israeli government called home its ambassador from Washington to discuss the American proposal, but the semi-official Jerusalem newspaper Davar called it "a bad plan which can lead not to a permanent settlement but to an immediate conflagration."

Syria said 40 of its MIGs rose to battle the Israeli air force, the largest number of interceptors the Syrians have admitted sending up in a single engagement since the 1967 war.

The communique said the Syrian pilots had shot down five planes, while anti-aircraft fire from the ground brought down a sixth. It said two of the planes crashed in Syrian territory, their pilots were captured, and one of them was being treated for injuries.

The communique added that no Syrian planes had been hit. The Israeli military command said its planes attacked the same three major Syrian bases hit Thursday at Qatana, 16 miles southwest of Damascus; Kiswah, 10 miles south of the city, and Seijen, 60 miles south-east of the capital.

An Israeli communique said the raids, like those Thursday, were in retaliation for recent "Syrian acts of aggression" and particularly for the heavy Syrian tank and artillery attack Wednesday night on Israeli posts in the Golan Heights.

Following the Israeli air raid Thursday, Israeli tanks and artillery attacked the Syrians all along the 50-mile cease-fire line, and Syria admitted 34 of its troops were killed and 65 wounded in some of the hardest fighting on Israel's frontiers since the 1967 war.

The Alitalia DC8 jet was near Damascus, flying from Tehran to Beirut and Rome, when a shell hit the left wing "and shook up the plane a little," said its pilot, Capt. Giorgio Pizzo, 38. He said he did not tell the passengers what had happened until they were approaching Beirut, and "they were all very calm."

Fire trucks roared out to the plane as it landed, causing erroneous reports that its landing gear was on fire. The passengers were sent on to Rome on a plane of Lebanon's Middle East Airways.

Nasser's rejection of the American peace plan was the first official reaction following U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers' discussion of it at a news conference in Washington Thursday.

As outlined by Rogers, the proposal calls for Egypt, Israel and Jordan to observe a cease-fire for 90 days or longer during which U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring would try to get peace talks started.

It also calls on both sides to recognize the U.N. Security Council's 1967 resolution, which provided for Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands and the Arabs' recognition of Israel's right to exist within secure boundaries.

Rogers gave no indication that the United States was proposing any modification in Israel's pre-1967 boundaries. But Nasser's comments seemed to confirm reports that the U.S. plan, while calling for Israeli withdrawal from Egyptian and Jordanian territories seized in the 1967 war, said nothing about the Golan Heights which it took from Syria. The official basis for this omission reportedly is that Syria has never announced acceptance of the 1967 Security Council resolution.

Informants in Damascus said Syria also would refuse to accept any peace proposal that did not provide for Israeli withdrawal from the heights.

Nasser told a crowd of 100,000 in the Libyan city of Benghazi that Egypt would make "no concessions regarding one inch of Arab territory."

He said Egypt has insisted for the past two years "that Israel must withdraw completely from all Arab territories occupied in the 1967 war, including Jerusalem, the west bank of the Jordan, the Golan Heights, Sinai and Gaza. We repeat this stand publicly today."

"Furthermore," he said, "we shall make no concessions regarding the full rights of the Palestinian people in their country of Palestine."

Nasser also said Egypt will soon receive "hundreds of new planes from the Soviet Union," will set up a complete new air defense system along the Suez Canal and that once a suitable opportunity presents itself, no power on earth will prevent the Egyptian army from crossing the canal.

Millonig Resigns As UR Chairman

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON
The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency will undergo a major change in top personnel during the next week.

Its chairman, Henry F. Millonig, announced his resignation today and the term of its vice-chairman, Joseph W. Robertson, runs out on Tuesday. In addition, sources within the agency indicate that one other member of the agency may be resigning within the immediate future.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig, in acknowledging the resignation of Millonig, said that he expected to name a successor to fill the chairman's unexpired term (June 30, 1971) on Monday or Tuesday.

Millonig officially notified the mayor in late April that he was resigning, effective June 1. Asked why Millonig's letter of resignation was not made public at the time, Koenig told The Freeman today, "We had hoped to convince Henry to stay on to complete his term."

Koenig indicated that he would reappoint Robertson to a full five-year term when his term runs out on Tuesday. Robertson was appointed to fill the unexpired term of former chairman G. Scott Alexander who resigned last November. It is expected that Robertson will be elected chairman of the agency and if so, will be the agency's third chairman in the past seven months.

Reports of a second resignation in the agency (besides Millonig's) persisted today. Other members of the agency are Elmore Yallum, William T. Mahoney and Edward A. Parker.

Millonig was appointed to the agency by former Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan following a congressional investigation by the late Representative Joseph Y. Resnick. Resnick demanded and got the resignation of the entire urban renewal agency and its chairman in September of 1967 following his summer-long probe.

Millonig served as vice-chairman under Alexander and as acting chairman from November of 1969 to March of this year.

Millonig cited pressing business matters as the reason for his resignation. He is the vice-president of Canfield Supply Company and president of Canfield's newly acquired firm, American Plating Company.

He termed his 2½ years on the board "a tremendous" experience. "I enjoyed serving the city both as a member of the agency and as its chairman," he said.

Millonig said that the agency "went from absolutely nothing (during his term) to $13½ million worth of construction. The groundwork was laid by the previous agency but we brought it to fruition," he said.

Koenig also announced the reappointment of Mrs. Elizabeth Donnaruma to a one-year term on the Landmark Preservation Commission as the mayor's representative.

In addition, he has reappointed Mrs. William (Jeanette) Kelly to another four-year term as the city's registrar of vital statistics.

He also has recommended the appointment of Charles A. Diamond of 25 Charlotte Street to Kingston Draft Board No. 18 to fill the unexpired term of the late Edwin Bahl, who died last month. Bahl was also a member of the Kingston Recreation Commission and Koenig is expected to fill that post next week.

In other urban renewal news, James G. Connors, executive director of the agency, said he is preparing a report for the mayor and the Common Council on the proposed Ulster Arterial. The Council is expected to vote on accepting the arterial at its August meeting.

Minnewaska Saved—State Buying It

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The bulk of the Lake Minnewaska mountain resort in Ulster County, once proposed as the site of a housing project, will be purchased by the state for use as a state park.

Gov. Rockefeller announced Thursday that the state will purchase 6,725 acres for $1.5 million and develop it as the Minnewaska State Park.

The announcement came in the form of an eleventh hour reprieve for the 10,500 acre tract which was due to go on the auction block at noon today at the Court House in Kingston. A foreclosure action on a $1.3 million mortgage was brought by Empire National Bank of Newburgh last year.

The property is located in the Shawangunk Mountain Range, about a two-hour drive from Manhattan. It includes two glacial lakes—90-acre Lake Awosting and 9-acre Lake Haseco, several waterfalls ranging up to 120 feet high, rockcroppings with views of the Catskills and the Hudson highlands, profuse pine, birch, maple, laurel, and abundant wildlife.

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell,

(R-Woodstock) one of the lawmakers who battled for the state acquisition of the property after the housing proposal became known, expressed hope that the state park eventually would be extended to include adjoining Lake Mohonk Mountain resort property.

Bell said the land was suitable for a state park as it is and little development would be needed.

Rockefeller said his office and that of his brother, Laurence S. Rockefeller, chairman of the State Council of Parks and Outdoor Recreation, received many letters suggesting that the tract be brought into the state park system.

The state purchase includes all but a 2,895-acre section of the resort, Kenneth Phillips, the owner, retained that section, which contains two resort hotels, a ski area and a golf course.

The $1.5 million for Minnewaska marks a year's work by Bell, who with Sen. Jay P. Rolison introduced legislation to authorize funding to acquire the property.

Bell and Rolison said that once the money was appropriated, they had to "fight constantly to guard against the appropriation's deletion from the budget for reappropriation for other state purposes."

The plight of the park-like property drew attention statewide when in July 1969 high-ranking federal state and county officials zeroed in on Lake Minnewaska to answer an urgent call for the preservation of the area's beauty of the land for outdoor recreation, conservation and leisure time.

The call went out from Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress and the Regional Plan Association of New York both of whom had been cognizant of the fact the area in question might go up for sale.

Since that time at least 20

organizations, including Nature

Conservancy have made their concern for the preservation of the property constantly known to state and federal officials. Pattern served as a clearing house for ideas, suggestions and proposals.

Bell said that he was concerned that most other states were buying recreation and open space areas and that those concerned recognize that Minnewaska is within two hours driving distance of eight to 10 million people.

Time and again throughout the long battle to keep the

Symposium on Abortion

Doctors, Clergy State Views

By NANCY SULLIVAN

KINGSTON
There is a "lack of respect for human life" and the abortion law recently adopted in New York State and effective beginning July 1 gives physicians "license to murder."

The above was the feeling of Dr. William Askue and several other physicians at a symposium at Fair Street Nursery School Thursday night in which area doctors and clergy from the Saugerties and Kingston Area Council of Churches gave their views on the new abortion law.

Dr. Theodore Jackaway said it another way — that the physicians have been given "the right to kill by the State of New York." He explained that a physician tries to spend his life in protecting and preserving the lives of his patients and said that most physicians don't want abortions.

Dr. Jackaway explained the recommendations adopted by the Public Health Council and the Medical Society.

The key recommendation calls for abortions to be performed "only in a hospital having a obstetrical, gynecological or surgical service and holding a currently valid operating certificate from the New York State Department of Health or the Health Services Administration of the City of New York, or in a suitably staffed and equipped facility having a hospital affiliation agreement acceptable to the State Hospital Council." The rest of the recommendations "reiterate" standard hospital rules, it was noted.

Dr. Jackaway said that Kingston Hospital will probably be doing abortions up to 12 weeks into pregnancy and any period after that time, a patient would be referred to another hospital, such as Albany Medical Center, where abortions will be performed up to 24 weeks.

The Rev. Richard Lake, of United Reformed Church, Bloomington, said that his concern deals with the problem of enabling women and their families to live with this law. He felt that it is important to counsel women seeking abortion to think through the whole process—to understand the law, the position of the medical society, physicians and the alternatives to having an abortion.

Another important factor is post-abortion discussions, according to the Rev. Mr. Lake, and because of the cultural pressures, there will often be feelings of guilt, remorse or despair following an abortion. Abortion is an emotional, medical, philosophical and ethical subject he said. The decision rests entirely with the woman and his main concern is to help the woman as much as possible, he commented.

New York City Board of Health decides abortions can be performed in clinics as well as hospitals . . . Story Page 3.

Dr. Emeline Hayward, Director, Ulster County Health Center, said that many women feel it is unfair to have a lot of children when there is only one mother to go around. She also said that it is a "very traumatic" experience for a woman who has a child and gives it up for adoption because it is hard for the mother to ignore the fact that this baby was hers and now someone else's. A woman who has an abortion forms no attachment to the baby. If there were any attachment formed then there probably wouldn't be an abortion, she added.

Human life is the thing we're concerned with here, stated Dr. John Alley, city physician. He said that the legislators were not given sound medical advice when constructing the law. Hazards of abortion are many and it is a "very serious situation," according to Dr. Alley.

Supportive counseling and the physic factors involving abortion concerned both the clergy and the medical. The medical profession is also concerned with safety facilities and family counseling. The differences between biological and human life are a concern of the clergy, as well as the fact of freedom of choice and the fact that we live in a "pluralistic society" and judgment should not be passed on the individual, it was stressed.

Some of the other recommendations made by the Public Health Council and the Medical Society are "Performance of abortions on an outpatient basis only up to the 12th week of pregnancy, and thereafter on an in-patient basis only."

It was also suggested that after the beginning of the 13th week, consultation be obtained "to protect the patient's welfare and safety."

Also, "no abortions to be performed in an emergency room or emergency department except in a case of medical or surgical emergency.

"A patient to be advised to consult another physician or physicians when the first physician refuses to participate in an abortion act as a matter of medical judgment or conscience.

An abortion should be performed only by a physician with a current valid license to practice medicine and surgery in New York and in accordance with medical staff rules of the hospital or facility where the abortion act is performed.

Positive evidence of pregnancy must be determined as well as the fact that a physician should not be required to perform or participate in abortion.

Blood should be available. A consent form should be duly signed, anesthesia should be administered by a qualified person and in the case of an abortion performed after the 12th week, it is recommended that consultation be obtained to protect the patient's health and welfare.

Other guidelines and recommendations have been made besides the one's stated as the law itself is "silent on the matter of standards," some speakers pointed out . . .

Senate Approves the Big Education Money Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a $4.75 billion education money bill that is nearly $80 million more than President Nixon requested but includes the initial funds wanted by the White House for aiding desegregating schools.

The bill was passed 74 to 4 early today, capping a long session that didn't end until after midnight in the second half of a two-session day designed to clear a work load backed up by the debate over Cambodia.

The final approval came after the Senate passed 70 to 18 an amendment to provide $150 million as the first installment of the $1.5 billion Nixon wants to help Southern school districts in their desegregation efforts.

Inclusion of the $150 million made the possibility of a Nixon veto uncertain. He rejected a similar bill earlier this year because the appropriation was more than he asked, and some Republicans had warned against a veto this time if the total went far above Nixon's request.

But because a share of the coverage is due to the $150 million and because Nixon has expressed strong desire for the aid money, it is hoped he will sign the measure.

The House last April passed its version of the spending bill, which totaled $4.13 billion. The two versions now go to conference where it appears the Senate total likely will be trimmed.

Earlier Thursday two recently integrated districts had told the House they need the emergency federal money to help improve conditions whites ignored when only black children were in-involved.

The Dade County School Board in Miami, Fla., increased its budget for police and guards from $350,000 to a projected $1.2 million in one year after whites learned of lunch-money shake-downs in once all-black schools. And in Houston, Texas, whites are demanding that dilapidated schools once attended only by blacks be fixed up now that white children will be attending them.

Dade's chairman, Holmes Braddock, told the House Education Committee Thursday of the Miami situation. "These extortions and shake-downs are problems that always existed, especially black child against black, but unfortunately the whites never cared, until now they are aware of them for the first time," he said.

George Oser, secretary of the trustees of the Houston school board, said parents by the thousands objected when the newly elected board revealed a minority-majority transfer plan which in most cases will send children to their nearest school.

"Parents had been driving by schools for years, schools that were dilapidated but hidden perhaps by shrubs or a viaduct but were totally segregated. Now, for the first time, people are realizing the nearest school is not the one they want their child to attend," he said.

At one heated civic club meeting where I spoke, a parent got up and said, "We drove over and looked at Williams School.

There are open ditches around the school and it is in disrepair.

How can you require us to send our children to that school?"

Dems Hopeful About Overriding Hospital Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats are optimistic about chances of overriding President Nixon's veto of the popular Hill-Burton hospital aid bill now that the House has re-passed the measure by a big margin.

If the Senate also musters the needed two-thirds margin it would be the first time Congress has enacted legislation over a Nixon veto.

Congress was unable to prevail on the only other bill disallowed by Nixon, a Health, Education and Welfare appropriations bill the President vetoed as inflationary.

In Thursday's House test, 68 Republicans joined 211 Democrats in voting to override the Hill-Burton veto. The President was supported by 95 Republicans and 3 Democrats.

The 279-98 tally gave the bill's supporters 27 votes more than the necessary two-thirds.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, told a newsman, "I think we'll have a rough time" trying to sustain the veto in the Senate.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said flatly he would vote to override because "the need for hospital modernization is so great."

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said the vote will come next Tuesday afternoon.

Mansfield declined to forecast certain victory, but other Democrats said privately they were quite hopeful. They cited these factors:

—The Senate originally passed the bill—a broader version which was cut down in conference with the House—by 79-0 on April 7.

—Conservative Southern Democrats probably will vote to override because the measure preserves a formula for allocation of the aid which gives extra help to low-income states and thus benefits their region.

—Republicans will be under pressure from state and local officials to support the bill because of a heavy need for expansion and modernization of hospital facilities all over the country.

The bill authorizes $1.26 billion to continue the grants for hospital construction and modernization, although Nixon had asked that further grants be discontinued and loans substituted.

It also contains a new $1.5 billion program of guaranteed loans on which the government would pay up to 3 per cent interest. The President favored the loan guarantees but opposed the subsidies.

Ottinger on Goodell—Record Major Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., made it clear Thursday Sen. Charles E. Goodell's early record as a House member will be a major issue in his campaign to unseat the New York Republican this November.

Recalling postions Goodell took while in the House between 1959 and 1968, when his voting record was considered conservative in comparison to his liberal votes now, Ottinger pointed out the freshman Senator endorsed Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., for president in 1964.

"Although I'll campaign against him on his record as a Senator, that doesn't mean I'm going to ignore his early record," Ottinger said, recalling Goodell helped to write the GOP's 1964 party platform.

Ottinger, who defeated former presidential speech writer Theodore Sorensen and two other candidates in Tuesday's Democratic primary for the U.S. Senate, said he would appear in television debates with Goodell.

"I will meet Mr. Goodell in debate as much as he wishes to debate," Ottinger said.

Asked what he thought of Goodell's warning that too many debates can bore the electorate, Ottinger replied, "I'll let him do the boring."

Asked if he would welcome the support of Democratic party leaders, such as former vice president Hubert H. Humphrey, Ottinger said he did not believe such help "makes much difference" in a campaign.

"You make it on your own or you don't make it at all," he said.

Ottinger did say, however, that he would welcome campaign assistance from Sens. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, or Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D.

Ottinger said he did not have an accurate accounting of what he spent in television and radio advertising in the primary. His opponents estimated he spent about $5 million.

REP. RICHARD L. OTTINGER

Steingut Calls for a Special Session

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Assembly Minority Leader Stanley Steingut has asked for a special session of the legislature to enact campaign spending controls even though the prospects were remote that Gov. Rockefeller would comply.

Steingut said he had requested the special session in a letter to the governor Thursday. The Brooklyn Democrat called for controls on spending in the fall elections. He told reporters:

"Unless immediate action is taken by the governor and the legislature, we will find that obvious disparity of financial resources between candidates will have an unfair advantage over other nominees for the particular office. This means that the voters will not be able to choose on the merits of the candidates but only on the financial means of the individual."

But in view of a lack of support for the special session from Republican leaders, it appeared doubtful that Gov. Rockefeller would call the legislators back into session.

Steingut said the effort has support from U.S. Rep. Richard Ottinger, who won the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate after a campaign in which his spending became a central issue.

Under the Steingut proposal, a $3-million "State Emergency Election Fund" to finance all television and radio campaign advertising for all statewide candidates. The money for the fund would be provided by the state.

Ulster Defies HRVC, Going Ahead With Landfill

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

Town of Ulster Supervisor Carmine Sabino, testifying before the Hudson River Valley Commission at Thursday night's public hearing, said the town sorely needs this landfill for hard refuse and regardless of the commission's findings will proceed with the project.

Sabino, addressing the two members of the HRVC and Carl J. Mays, executive director, at the hearing in the Chambers School told them the town would go ahead, "and if you want to get a court order you can." Two members of the commission attending were Robert Young and Harold E. Rist.

The HRVC objected to the landfill for wood, brush and old tires because it claimed the Town of Ulster did not have the long-range program for the site. Supervisor Sabino indicated this was untrue and proceeded to read a Town Board resolution adopted on May 6 which follows:

"The board resolved that the acreage on Ulster Landing Road be used for wood, brush, stone, fill or other related materials. We will use the proper safeguards as the situation demands. Our long-range program is to use it as a recreation area. It is the intent of the board to protect all interests within the area of the above mentioned landfill."

A spokesman for HRVC contended that the town was not definite enough about the landfill program for ultimate recreation purposes and cited the fact that the town failed to fence the site (frontage 680 feet) to curb the dumping of garbage and other unwanted materials at the landfill.

At this point Harry F. Edinger, director of environmental sanitation of the County Health Department spoke and said he had been keeping a close watch on this project to make sure that the proper material is filled and the operation keep up to Health Department standards.

Edinger said he approved the proposal and that there would be no contamination of the Hudson from runoff into the river nearby.

The State Conservation Department went on record at the hearing that the proposed landfill for hard materials would destroy wildlife habitat and they objected on that basis.

Council William D. Costello indicated that the Conservation Department did not seem too concerned about the amount of land used for the Kingston-department at that time and received no answer.

Rhinecliff Bridge. He asked swamp off Route 199 for the what stand was taken by the landfill.

Other Town Board members also supported the stand of the town in regard to the great need for such a landfill for hard materials.

Town Justice Sherwood E. Davis reiterated some of the points made by other town spokesmen and said the town would use every means to protect its citizens in regard to the landfill.

Andrew Turco, president of Turco Milk Transportation Co., Inc., whose residence is near the proposed landfill site presented his objections. His reference to the smell of a landfill was answered by Supervisor Sabino, who noted there was nothing among the materials the HRVC spokesman indicated planned to be dumped that would give off an odor. Turco everything in consideration be-

Sabino, losing his patience for the moment, told Turco, "You would rather have it next to someone else's backyard rather than your own."

Another objector was Robert Cousins, who also is an adjoining property owner. He objected that the town had no means for curbing the dumping of raw garbage into the landfill. Sabino again advised that all necessary means would be employed to prevent this.

The use of a hard material landfill as a reclamation project was suggested by Edinger who said that the town's regular landfill area would be used up more rapidly if the hard materials are dumped there.

At the end of the hearing, the HRVC spokesman indicated that the commission would take everything in consideration before filing its determination.

Parker Feted, Leaving UCCAC

Mayor Francis R. Koenig and former Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan were main speakers at a testimonial honoring Eddie A. Parker, former executive director of the Ulster County Community Action Committee last week at the Holiday Inn. Parker resigned last month from the $12,500 a year post.

Koenig and Garrahan both cited Parker for his activities in civic affairs. Parker also is a member of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, the Kingston Human Relations Commission and the NAACP.

Previous to accepting the post of executive director with UCCAC, Parker was a teacher at the Highland School for Boys. He is expected to return to that position.

Parker's resignation is effective July 1.

Promoters of the Summer Sound Festival proposed for several weekends at the Pan Copeland eight-acre farm at Shults Corners, High Woods, have filed a show cause order against the Town of Saugerties returnable today.

According to Town Attorney Richard B. Overbagh, the show cause order was served Thursday night on Supervisor A. Michael Schovel.

In basic terms, the town is required to show cause why a permit should not be granted to the Sound Festival to conduct its activity during the July 4 weekend.

Overbagh said the festival promoters have filed a written application for a permit and it is now under consideration by the town.

At a recent Town Board meeting, when the new assembly law was adopted, Ian Haim, a young recording studio executive, representing Sound Festival Inc., said the group has gone to great expense in order to avoid some of the problems of the Woodstock Music and Art Festival held last summer at White Lake, Sullivan County.

He said ticket sales would be limited to 2,000 and arrangements will be made to have cars parked elsewhere and those attending would be bused to the site on Glasco Turnpike. He also noted that the festivals would be held at specific hours including Friday 7 to 11 p.m.; Saturday 4 to 11 p.m. and Sunday 2 to 6 p.m.

Harry F. Edinger, director of environmental sanitation of the County Health Department said today that Sound Festival Inc. had applied for a Health Department permit under the town law and on the basis of arrangements outlined were given a conditional letter of approval. He said they are planning on about 24 portable chemical toilets and the festival will be contained on from 3 to 5 acres of the site. Edinger noted that a caterer from Secaucus, N. J., will be supplying the food for the event and it appears they have met all of the health conditions. The Elton Johnson property along the Blue Mountain Road adjacent to his camping summer trailer park is being considered for the parking area, Edinger said.

The procedure means the city will have no legal restrictions on abortions for some weeks after the law goes into effect.

Before formal inclusion in the health code, the regulations must be printed in the City Record. An ensuing 20-day delay required by law and a public hearing will precede final adoption.

Physicians could set up clinics in their offices, but the great expense involved is expected to inhibit such intentions.

Among the requirements are a blood bank, laboratory testing facilities, sophisticated anesthetics, an operating room equipped to handle abdominal surgery, and the presence of skilled medical personnel.

Independent clinics, without the benefit of affiliated hospitals to take emergency cases, would be required to maintain a more elaborate plant.

The Board of Health voted Thursday to incorporate in the health code regulations that would permit establishment of two types of abortion clinics to meet the anticipated flood of cases stemming from the state's liberalized abortion law, which takes effect next Wednesday.

Under the law, most liberal in the nation, a woman needs only the consent of her physician to obtain an abortion during the first 24 weeks of pregnancy.

The guidelines, which had been expected to be included in the health code, provided for abortions in hospitals only, on an outpatient basis during the first 12 weeks, on an inpatient basis for the next 12 weeks.

But the new decision provides that as an alternative to receiving a hospital abortion, a woman may choose a clinic, either one affiliated with a hospital or one that is independent.

While both types of clinic would be limited to handling cases of 12 weeks or less, the affiliated clinic would be required to establish ties with a hospital no more than 10 minutes away so that emergency cases could be rushed to the hospital and superision of the clinic staff could be assured.

CATSKILL — A 63-year-old Greene County woman was in critical condition today at Albany Medical Center Hospital suffering burns of the entire body that she sustained after she allegedly poured gasoline on her clothes and set fire to them.

Swift Medical Records

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — The emergency room of Strong Memorial Hospital has installed a computer that in seconds can come up with medical records of any patient treated within the last two years.

When a number is punched on a keyboard, the computer flashes through records of some 40,000 patients and flashes the correct card on a small screen. Officials say the computer system goes a long way to quicken diagnoses and the administering of proper treatment.

Leeds State Police said that Anna Kohl of Palenville was in the yard at about 5 p.m. Thursday when the incident occurred. Troopers reported that the woman's sister, whose name was not immediately available, and neighbors went to the aid of the Kohl woman and extinguished the flames.

Taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital, the burned woman was later transferred to the hospital in Albany where she was listed in critical condition.

State Police BCI Investigators today continued investigation seeking to establish a motive for the burning incident.

According to authorities the Kohl woman suffered third and fourth degree burns of the entire body.

Exports Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. exports will exceed imports by more than $2.3 billion this year according to predictions by the Commerce Department.

The department said Thursday the increase would be substantially above last year's $1.5 billion trade balance but still less than the $5 billion a year the Nixon administration has set as a goal.

Exports in May totaled $3.7 billion and imports were $3.36 billion, setting record highs for monthly totals, the department said.

The ceremony was performed by a Las Vegas district judge. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Minnewaska . . .

With the aid of groups such as the Sierra Club, National Audubon Society, the National Park Service, State Conservation Department and State Park Commission, beauty won out.

Conservationists were adamant in not wanting to see developers "do here what they did in Long Island and New Jersey."

Throughout the long struggle the banks holding mortgages on the property were praised for their patience and understanding in the matter.

Rockefeller said the preliminary planning for the site provides for wilderness camping by hikers and for group camping at regular campsites. The area also will have day use facilities. The net cost to the state may be somewhat less than $1.5 million, Rockefeller said, because the state has applied for a grant from the U.S. Department of the Interior.

The resort was founded in the mid-1800s by Alfred and Albert Smiley, two Quaker schoolmasters whose family owns the Lake Mohonk resort. The Lake Mohonk property has been placed into a nonprofit, permanent trust to preserve its wilderness character.

The Minnewaska resort was sold in 1955 to Phillips, a former Smiley employee.

The Shawangunks are part of a mountain range that extends 200 miles to the Susquehanna valley in Pennsylvania. The range is known by many names, including the Kittatinny Mountains in New Jersey and the Blue Mountains in Pennsylvania.

Memorial

In memory of Donald T. Murray, who passed away seven years ago, June 26.

God took him home, it was His will but in our hearts we love him still.

His memory is as dear today.
As in the hour he passed away.
We often sit and think of him,
When we are all alone.
For memory is the only friend,
That grief can call its own.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market opened narrowly mixed in moderately active trading today.

Traders and investors found little in the news background to inspire them, and analysts suggested that the market may drift for the immediate future. Some uneasiness still was apparent on Wall Street as a result of the fighting in Indochina and the Middle East. Shortly after the opening the UPI marketwide indicator was up 0.06 per cent. The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips was off a fraction.

In the mixed steel U.S. Steel was unchanged at 31 3/4 while Bethlehem Steel picked up 1/4 to 22 1/2. Armco dipped 1/4 to 20 1/2. Autos showed little change. Ford rose 1/4 to 43 1/2 and General Motors was unchanged at 61.

Chemicals moved fractionally. Du Pont rose 1/4 to 118 1/4. Allied Chemical 1/4 to 17 1/2. Union Carbide opened 1/2 higher at 34 1/2.

Apollo Astronauts at Sullivan Dedication

WHITE LAKE
Apollo 9 astronauts Russell L. "Rusty" Schweikart and James McDivitt will accept National Aeronautic Association space awards on behalf of the crews of Apollo 9 and 11 at the "Aviation 70's Banquet" at the Concord Hotel, Kiamasha Lake, tonight.

On Saturday Robert V. Reynolds, assistant administrator for general aviation affairs of the Federal Aviation Administration will formally dedicate the Sullivan County International Airport and speak on "The Role of Community Airports in Our Transportation System."

Senator to Speak

The banquet is the opening event of a two-day program to officially dedicate the Sullivan airport with all events keyed to the theme, "Community Airport Development in the Seventies." Featured speaker at the banquet will be Sen. Howard Cannon of Nevada, known as "Mr. Aviation" and the most responsible for the recently enacted and far-reaching Airport and Airways Development Act of 1970.

COL. JAMES MCDIVITT

The Sullivan County airport has been described by President Richard M. Nixon as a vital part of the nation's interconnecting aerial chain. In an open letter to the people of Sullivan County President Nixon praised them for their farsightedness in creating "a functional facility to serve a progressive and fast-growing community. As the air carrier airport in your region, it is of inestimable value to the nation's air transportation system."

"It will provide a critical link to other airports and become a vital part of the interconnecting aerial chain that mobility to all segments of our population, as well as access to all geographical areas."

The airport was completed and opened for traffic last year. It is presently served by Mohawk Airlines using 44-passenger Fairchild-Hiller prop jets with daily flights. The airport has a 6300-foot runway and a modern terminal.

The nation's most well-known lawman, television "Safety Sheriff" Joe Higgins, will be the master of ceremonies for the dedication of the airport.

The announcement on the "Safety Sheriff" was made jointly by John J. McGough, commissioner of public works for Sullivan County and Congressman Martin B. McKneally (27th District) the honorary chairman of the two-day program which will feature an "Aviation 70's" banquet and an air show.

Higgins, who portrays the southern sheriff in TV commercials, used by the Dodge Division of Chrysler Corporation is now a "virtual TV classic and a transcontinental conversation topic. He is the world's most honored 'sheriff' and perhaps the nation's most famed and favored lawman since the days of the legendary Wyatt Earp.

"The Navy's 'Blue Angels' will be the highlight of the air show to be presented at noon Saturday.

"The 'Blues' are officially known as the U.S. Navy Flight Demonstration team and have thrilled millions of spectators for some 24 years with spectacular demonstrations of precision aerobatic and formation flying. The "Blues" are seven pilots.

one naval flight officer, one maintenance officer, one woman public affairs officer and 100 enlisted personnel comprising the Navy's Demonstration team.

The "Blues" plane is the McDonnell Douglas F4J, the United States' safest, fastest and highest flying fighter-bomber. It has a top speed in excess of 1600 miles an hour and has been flown at altitudes above 100,000 feet.

At the banquet Schweikart and McDivitt will accept space 9 crew with Schweikart and awards on behalf of the crews David Scott, had the question of Apollo 9 and 11 from Major able distinction of being dunked General Brooke E. Allen, during the pinpoint splash-executive director of National Aeronautic Association of Washington. The awards to Apollo 9 are for one absolute world record (duration of stay outside spacecraft) and six world records.

The recovery of the three, however, turned out to be a wild affair which looked like a slapstick comedy at times.

Reynolds of the FFA named Schweikart, known as assistant administrator in 1965, "Rusty", was one of the third group of astronauts named by NASA (National Aeronautics and Space Administration) in ground to serve the ever-growing need of general aviation. The Apollo 9 mission he served on was the first manned flight in the Apollo series, the second to be the regulation of flight safety launched by a Saturn V and operation and maintenance of the first manned flight of the air traffic control-air navigation system.

Jack Anderson Says

Turn Down Volpe on Fund

WASHINGTON — The White House sent Secretary of Transportation John Volpe on a confidential mission to Capitol Hill last Monday night to sweet-talk Congress out of $750 million in the three days for American railroads.

The main pitch by the earnest Volpe at the after-hours meeting was funds to bail out Penn Central, which had filed bankruptcy papers over the weekend.

"Penn Central's payroll alone is $15 million this week," Volpe pleaded with the House and Senate mightily at the backroom-session.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., listened skeptically to Volpe for a few minutes, then with a "humff" left the meeting. His "humff" was interpreted variously as anger and astonishment.

Volpe continued to spell out his scheme for financing failing railroads with $750 million, which he emphasized would have to be rushed through Congress in three days.

Not long after Mansfield's "humff," Sen. Steve Young, D-Ohio, muttered: "Fantastic!"

Volpe looked around hopefully at the congressional foes after his 15-minute summary. There wasn't an encouraging smile in the room.

Calm, kindly Sen. Clifford

Case, R-N.J., observed laconically: "There is an unreality to this meeting."

He insisted that hearings would have to be held. "I don't think 20 per cent of the nation's railroad transportation got in all this trouble in the past two weeks," Case said, counseling delay.

Bad Publicity
House Republican Leader

Gerald Ford, R-Mich., put it to Volpe straight: "You've got a helluva public relations problem."

The politically-minded Ford, presumably, referred to the exposes by this column and others that President Nixon's former law firm was in on the Penn Central case.

Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy and U.S.

Ambassador to Great Britain Walter Annenberg are also tied to the Penn Central case through past or present business deals.

While Volpe listened sorrowfully, the congressional leaders talked of "Maybe letting Penn Central collapse," Ford said, only half-jokingly: "Give them the shock treatment."

Only Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., stood up for the Nixon plan. He turned to Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., and said firmly: "I'll co-sponsor a bill with Maggie."

Magnuson shied away. "It'd be better if I didn't," he said gently.

The hour-long session broke up with the congressmen agreeing that hearings were needed before they could commit $750 million of the taxpayers' money. Volpe, dignified in defeat, quietly marched back down Capitol Hill.

Another Nixon Casualty
James Farmer, the most prominent Negro in the Nixon administration, may soon join other civil rights leaders who have quit or have been eased out.

Farmer's job as Assistant Secretary in charge of administration at the Health, Education, and Welfare Department is even now being cut out from under him, leaving him with lessened authority.

The former CORE leader's genius has been in social planning.

High HEW sources have told this column that Farmer has let the administrative side of his job take second place. Now this neglect is being used as an excuse to switch him to a lesser role.

Even before Secretary Robert Finch's transfer to the White House was announced, there was a move afoot to give Farmer a less prestigious Assistant Secretaryship. This would be called a "lateral transfer" to save Farmer's pride.

But Farmer, whose bitter days in a Mississippi jail for his "freedom-riding" have been forgotten by today's young black militants, has served notice on Finch that he "won't step down," that he'll quit rather than accept a demotion.

Reached at a conference in Aspen, Colo., Farmer conceded only that "for more than a year, reorganization has been discussed and I have participated in these discussions."

Other HEW officials have said the discussions centered on removing such functions as personnel, management systems and general services from Farmer's bailiwick. So far, President Nixon's new Secretary, Elliott Richardson, has made no final decision on Farmer's role.

Farmer is the man who put his job on the line in a showdown with John Bell Williams, Mississippi's segregationist governor, and won Finch's backing. This outraged some members of Nixon's kitchen cabinet, who like their politics Southern fried.

In addition, Farmer has become increasingly outspoken about the abyss between the White House and the black community, although he has stopped short of criticizing Nixon personally and publicly.

Autos for China?

The Detroit motor companies are beginning to look longingly at communist China. Confidential business reporting services out of Peking tell of 8,000 big trucks and construction vehicles paid for in hard cash by the mainland Chinese. The equipment was sold to China by Japan, France and Romania. West Germany also is getting in on the Chinese "market" to the tune of $150 million a year.

The American businessman, however, is not standing still. Subsidiaries of U.S. firms are cautiously meeting with representatives in Hong Kong to make sure they get into the mainland market — when and if the bamboo curtain is lifted.

Freeman Editorials

Neumaier Revisited

The Freeman on Wednesday devoted an inordinate amount of space to the publication of a letter to the editor from Dr. John J. Neumaier, president of the State University at New Paltz, in which that learned gentleman went to great pains to castigate this newspaper.

Dr. Neumaier's more salient points attempted to portray himself as the victim of some type of sinister conspiracy designed exclusively to eradicate the presence of the good doctor from the scene at New Paltz.

The letter charged slanting of stories, distortion of headlines and suppression, all with the purpose of presenting the Paltz president in an unfavorable light. In fact, Dr. Neumaier accused The Freeman of siding with the forces of the current backlash against academe, throwing in the deaths at Kent State and Jackson State for an embellishing touch.

But let's look at the record.

• On May 22, The Freeman published a front page story in which Dr. Neumaier defended what he himself termed "the facts and record of his administration . . ." Bias, Doctor?

• On May 23, The Freeman published, under a three column head, a story reporting that the majority of faculty at New Paltz stood behind Dr. Neumaier's administrative policies. Bias, again, Doctor?

• On May 28, The Freeman once again published a story stating the Paltz Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution commending Dr. Neumaier. However, in this story we also included the fact that the New Paltz American Legion post had joined the Kingston Legion post in calling for the president's resignation.

Perhaps Dr. Neumaier's interpretation of bias is to give the other side exposure.

This The Freeman was guilty of doing when we also reported that the New Paltz Knights of Columbus, the New Paltz Veterans of Foreign Wars and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. and chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, Peter J. Savago were also critical of Dr. Neumaier's administration. And, of course, 16 tenured professors at the university itself.

Really, Doctor, we simply could not have subverted those stories simply to assuage any feelings of persecution.

There is, however, one thought in the Doctor's letter to the editor which we wholeheartedly agree with. That's when Dr. Neumaier states "It is high time that public officials, including university presidents, serve with less concern for their economic security, professional safety, and 'political' public trust judiciously, conscientiously, courageously and with integrity."

It would be a pleasure for this newspaper to report these noble words translated into action rather than simply the words themselves.

Do Figures Lie?

John Ledbetter, president of Civitan International and one of a number of American civic organization leaders selected for a special fact-finding mission to Vietnam, reports that some 100,000 Communist soldiers turned in their weapons during the past year and a half "to seek the democratic way." This program has been 92 per cent successful, he says.

Now "some 100,000" is some fantastic figure. It is, in fact, at least twice the number of troops North Vietnam has ever deployed in South Vietnam at any one time. It is only 50,000 less than the number of U.S. troops President Nixon plans to take an entire year to withdraw.

And what is 92 per cent business? Ninety-two per cent of what? It can't be 92 per cent of the total North Vietnamese Viet Cong forces in South Vietnam, for that would mean the Communists are reduced to carrying out their operations with a mere 8,700 men.

This is the kind of "fact-finding" about Vietnam that is driving Americans up the wall.

David Lawrence Says

Mansfield Cooperative

WASHINGTON — Although the National Broadcasting Company granted "equal time" to Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic majority leader in the Senate, for his nationwide talk on television about the economic problems of the country, it didn't attract the attention that President Nixon's did. Also, many of the people who listened had already forgotten several of the points made in the Nixon speech of last week.

The Democratic leader nevertheless made a well-balanced set of comments. It was not in the nature of a political speech at all. There was no invective or irony or animosity in it. Mr. Mansfield admitted, as Mr. Nixon had said, that much of what is transpiring in the National economy began during preceding administrations. The Democratic leader added:

"We may regret it but we cannot undo it. To be sure, the basic strength of the American economy promises a great deal. But that is for the future. What of today? What of the now?"

The Montana Senator stressed the fact that inflation is still rising, that interest rates have climbed, and that unemployment is growing steadily. He then declared: "Congress shares the responsibility for correcting these discouraging economic trends. To be sure, the Congress has not concurred completely in the President's approach to them. Nor has the President responded to all of the actions of the Congress. That is neither unprecedented nor undesirable. Each Branch has its separate responsibilities even as each branch shares in a common obligation to the people of the nation. When there are differences, insofar as the majority leadership is concerned, it will not waste time in political recriminations. It will concentrate, instead, on doing what can be done in the Congress."

Mr. Mansfield pointed out that much of what can readily be initiated to improve the economic situation has been done. He stressed a number of laws passed, and promised that if Mr. Nixon wishes "to use the persuasion of the presidency" as a means of discouraging excessive price and wage increases, the President would get the support of Congress. Mr. Mansfield said it is not clear to him why this "persuasive power" has not been tried. He claimed that this approach was effective in 1962 and suggested that presidential intervention could well be used again. He added:

"Congress has already given more authority to the President than he wishes, apparently, to use against the rise in prices. That is his option. I do not criticize his decisions. But the record should be clear. Congress has been ready and stands ready to cooperate with the President. We are prepared to move on any proposals which may be forthcoming from the administration to end the inflation and to check the slide into a deepening recession."

Other pledges of cooperation were cited to confirm the willingness of Congress to work with the President in order to "stop the downward drift in the economy."

After presenting some illustrative examples of federal spending for military purposes, Senator Mansfield indicated that his party can take credit for much of the cutting down of federal expenses.

While listing a few of the differences between the President and Congress, the Democratic leader asserted that "the most respectful consideration" will be given to whatever President Nixon "may propose to halt the inflation and high interest rates, to reduce unemployment and terminate our involvement in Vietnam."

It was, on the whole, a nonpartisan speech such as might well be expected from an opposition leader during wartime. But, unfortunately, it doesn't reflect the behavior of many of the members of Mr. Mansfield's own party who have been carrying on campaigns that imply distrust in the President's statements that he will pull all American troops out of Cambodia by June 30. Many Democratic Senators have backed resolutions designed to suspend the use of public funds in certain areas and curtail the powers of the Commander-in-Chief in handling the armed services of the nation during wartime. This could be a serious handicap to military operations if emergencies should arise.

Altogether, Senator Mansfield portrayed himself as a cooperative majority leader, even though he represents an opposite political party.

Timely Quote

The draft has become an abomination. For 30 years it has rested like a yoke on the necks of generations of young men. Sometimes it seems to me a grotesque credit card to which diplomatic failures and military ventures may be charged and the bill is paid by our able-bodied male youth, aged 18 to 26—Dean E. McHenry, chancellor of the University of California, Santa Cruz.

BERRY'S WORLD

© 1970 by NEA, Inc. Jim Berry

"I guess they're really sincere about peace—it's a pot of chicken soup from Golda Meir."

Well, Edna, all I have to say is that it's about time. Women have been the burden of man since he first began observing birds and bees. Mark me as in favor of equal rights for women all the way. There was a time, you know, when they faked all this femininity and could barely make it across a street without a man holding his lady's arm.

Let her hold his. She should also get equal pay for equal work. If matters go wrong while she is working in the sewers, she should be canned just like anyone else. To be equal with men, they are also going to have to remove those caterpillar eyelashes, the rouge, lipstick, powder and give up bracelets and necklaces forever.

Men's fashions never change, so I expect that the average housewife is entitled to as many dresses as he has suits, and that they will last as long. Pick three women and give them a few driving lessons in a Saturn rocket and send them off to the moon. It's a bigger target than ramming the back of the garage.

Let the men do the grocery shopping, bucking the lines with the baby carriages, while Mom sits home watching the Giants play the Dodgers through the cigar smoke. We men have been remiss in not granting equal rights to our female counterparts. God knows, we've worshipped them for several millennia; now they can start worshipping us.

If the porch needs painting, give her a can of paint, a brush and a hard posterior slap. That's what we always got. Then too, if she doesn't like what we have cooked for dinner, we can sulk in silence for days just as she used to do.

I also recommend men's broadcloth shorts as more durable than the rhesus monkey kerchief women wear. They can make out the income tax form and sweat out the time trying to find the money. All these years, women have been the buyers of books, and we must relieve them of this burden.

Let the man walk into a bookshop and say: "Hey, Buddy. Where do you hide the dirty books?" and the literature problem has been solved.

On the planes, let the pilots serve the wine and canapes while the girls fly the monster at 30,000 feet from a cockpit full of irrational dials and buttons. Trains too. Ladies make excellent engineers.

In courtship, let them call on the boy and growl: "How about it?" It is all right for them to continue to bear children, because in this field we have a unique and irrevocable equipment problem. A few have tried to remedy this with Copenhagen surgery, but I am told that they come home looking like long-haired neuters.

They should also get into uniform as cops, and start like all other policemen — on night duty in the ghetto. They already have the vote, but they can stop asking their husbands "Which X should I mark?" They would make natural psychiatrists because they like nothing better than to listen to the latest dirt. Sitting near a couch, they will be paid for it.

Some of the older grandmothers can stop shaving the little mustache. Let it grow. Deodorants, creams, shaved legs and unguents are all dead and gone because, if the ladies continue to use those abominations, the men might start using them.

For true equality, the men should also wear their trousers four inches above the knee, so that everybody has a perpetual leg show. Mink coats will have to go; also those broad floppy hats and girdles. Girdles are the worst, because when a female rolls one down, her entire contour changes to something resembling a weather balloon.

We must have a woman President of the United States. It is imperative and long overdue. She, at least, can do something no other President has done — get on the hot line and call the Russians and coo at them. The best government position, of course, is to be Secretary of Defense. In the Pentagon, the lady can summon any one of several million men for inspection.

Health, Education and Welfare can be renamed Health, Education and Gynecology. In the event of war, we would expect that the government will draft one woman for each man. There might be some difficulty teaching them not to hop on chairs shrieking when they see a mouse, but we can't expect miracles.

From now on, in the darkness of the movies, I expect to feel a hand on my knee rather than vice versa. Viva equality!...

The Gayland Ranch House... Designed for Family First

Planning of facilities for relaxation on the family level has become an important factor in home designing. The planning must be done at the very outset of the project, not as an afterthought. Further, to meet the trend of expanding family activities, provisions must be made for facilities that not only serve but also blend for combined use. An example of such planning is offered today in a charming two bedroom ranch type dwelling, called "The Gayland."

The focal area is the combination of a large 21'x20' living room with a wide opening to a dining area, and the closed L-shape kitchen with space for a kitchen table. A glance at the floor plan shows the back of the fireplace extended into the kitchen at the nook. For a distinctly individual pattern the area around the chimney on the kitchen side should show a brick face.

Further study of the plan shows a carport located in such a manner as to do double duty as a car shelter and covered terrace. During the planning stage of "The Gayland" the designer also kept in mind that to meet some family requirements the owner may decide to close in the carport area for use as a family room. The two rear bedrooms are well buffered from the living area with the full bath close at hand.

Cedar Closet

Q.—We have had a red cedar closet for many years. It no longer has any cedar odor. Can the surface be finished with varnish?

A.—Yes—but why? Once you put any kind of coating on the wood, you destroy the moth-repellent qualities, which can be all or partly restored by sanding the wood thoroughly.

Some Pests Can Be Useful

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

Biological Insect Control:

Many readers ask why we do not dwell more on natural or biological control methods for fighting insects. We hope that the time will come when we can do away with chemical sprays on fruits and vegetables to be eaten. Many gardeners have already switched to biological control, but as yet such programs are not completely adequate, but they are worth trying. One method consists of using trichogramma, the microscopic natural enemy of the apple worm and all other members of the Lepidoptera order of insects. The trichogramma destroys the eggs

(which hatch into harmful worms). The natural enemy will not feed on or harm vegetation and is perfectly harmless to everything except the undesirable lepidopterous eggs. So Trichogramma is an efficient egg parasite on many insects (moths and butterflies). This parasite is being used with considerable success in citrus groves and cotton fields in California. Ladybird beetles (ladybugs) have also been used for aphid control, particularly in melon fields in some areas. We hope that someday it will be possible to control many types of crop pests with well-timed releases of parasites. Also experimental are programs of male pest sterilization. If you're using biological insect control methods, please write and tell me what success you're having. Kiss Me Over the Garden Gate: While it's tasty when frozen, it's much more so when grown in your own garden and eaten at just the right stage—when pods are young and tender and the peas inside have barely started to form. Peas are grown like others and some gardeners grow two rows close together so that plants will support one another.

Green Thumb Clinic: A reader writes: "Please tell me how to grow the double flowered Cosmos. We saved seed from last year." Answer: I wouldn't save seed of the double types. Try the Mandarin, a very double, bright

Nature Is the Enemy

Pay Heed to Outside Stairs

By MR. FIX

Outdoor stairways cannot be ignored the way those indoors are. Inside the house a stairway may develop a squeak but it isn't likely to fall down.

Outside, wind and rain take their toll of stairs. Even if you never used the stairway it would need attention.

Regular maintenance and more frequent repairs are necessary whatever the material in use—wood, concrete or brick.

Wooden stairs, naturally, should be checked frequently for signs of weakness and decay. Examine the stringers (the side that hold the steps) for cracking. You can strengthen a stringer by bolting an additional piece of wood along its length.

Use a 2x4 or a 2x6 and use carriage bolts to fasten it. Nails might cause further splitting.

Treads (the part of the step you put your feet on) are attached to the stringer by cleats fastened to the inside of the stringer or by grooves cut into the stringer.

Loose cleats can be tightened with new screws. Badly damaged or decayed cleats should be replaced. If the wood around grooves has started to splinter or decay, reinforce with cleats.

When doing this kind of work, remove the tread carefully. Tap lightly on the underside on each end to avoid cracking. When you replace the tread, renail completely.

Treads should be replaced if badly worn. If a tread is worn slightly at the center get extra wear out of it by turning it over.

In a brick stairway look for worn mortar and loose bricks. Clean out loose mortar and re-mortar if brick is still securely in place. If brick is loose, remove completely. Scrape out all the loose mortar. Don't leave any particles. Hose down thoroughly. This gets rid of loose dirt and moistens the surface for the new mortar.

Use ready-mix and cover all surfaces of the brick, except the face with mortar.

Fit the brick in place and fill up remaining space with mortar. Scrape away excess. Keep the area wet for a few days.

Look for cracks in concrete steps. Open them with a hammer and chisel so that all loose concrete is cleaned out. Fill with fresh concrete after wetting the surface. Make the crack width at the bottom than at the surface. Wet it for the next few days.

Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

FIANCE'S FAMILY

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter just became engaged to a boy from out of town. He was visiting with us when they became engaged. He called his parents to tell them the news.

My daughter is graduating from college here in June, and they are coming for her graduation. I hold her fiance to tell his parents that we were looking forward to meeting them at that time. My question is: Should we invite them to stay at our home? We really don't have room for three extra people. Just what are our obligations in a situation such as this? We fully intend to entertain them while they are in our city.—Mrs. F. J.

Dear Mrs. J.: It would be nice if you could make room for them. But if you cannot, write them a note explaining that you would love to have them stay with you but do not have room, and could you be of help by making a motel or hotel reservation for them nearby. Since they are coming just for your daughter's graduation, they are, in a sense, your guests and, if you possibly can, you should offer to pay for their accommodations.

Two Weddings in One Day

Dear Mrs. Post: What do you think of a couple, attendants at a wedding, who leave that wedding to go to another wedding on the same day in their gown and tuxedo?

Dear Sandra: It depends on the relationships. If the two bridal couples were friends, and a number of the guests at each wedding were going on to the other, it would not seem out of order. But if the groups were entirely separate, and only the two attendants were going on to the later wedding, they should have changed to the ordinary clothes of a wedding guest. Of course, attendants should never leave the wedding they are part of before the bridal couple departs.

Lady Rises to Greet Minister

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a member of the executive board at our church. Recently the president of the church held a meeting for the purpose of interviewing a prospective new minister. When the minister came into the room in his robes and the other board members (all men) rose to their feet to greet him. Instinctively I followed their example in deference to the man's office. As the only woman present, should I have remained seated?—Doreen

Dear Doreen: I approve of your standing to greet the prospective new minister. The question of whether a woman retains her "honorary" status or defers to someone of more "importance" becomes quite complicated in such a situation, as it does in making introductions. The rules are ambiguous, so you chose the right course. Your action was natural and friendly, showed your respect for his position, and also made you more a part of the group.

Dear Mrs. Post: Our daughter will be married this summer and we'll soon be addressing invitations. The inner envelope of these formal invitations should read, Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Robert (for a young son), but I wonder if it would be correct to address close personal friends and relatives as John, Mary and Bob. I suppose that the formal way is better, but wonder if friends might be offended by a strict formality.—Mrs. Todd

Dear Mrs. Todd: Since it is the tradition and accepted form, friends and acquaintances should not be insulted by seeing "Mr. and Mrs. Smith" on the inner envelope. Relatives may be addressed as "Grandmother and Grandfather" or "Aunt Sue and Uncle Ted." First names, however, should be reserved for inner envelopes intended for children under 13 whose invitation is included in the outer envelope addressed to their parents.

MARIE FRANCELLO

Wins Scholarship; Woman's Club

The Ruth M. Gustin Memorial Scholarship, sponsored by the Woman's Club of Saugerties, was awarded at commencement ceremonies at the Saugerties High School. This year's winner is Miss Marie Francello, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Francello. Seyler's Terrace. Miss Francello plans to enter Bates College in Maine this fall.

Winning the Woman's Club Scholarship seems to be a family tradition. In 1968, the first year of the scholarship, Marie's sister Christine was the recipient. Christine will enter her third year at Bucknell University in September. In 1969 the Club was able to award two scholarships, one to Miss Ann Stegmayer, Cornell University, and one to Miss Margaret Kozenko, Ulster County Community College.

The Ruth M. Gustin Memorial Scholarship is supported through several fund-raising events throughout the Woman's Club year, and is awarded to the most deserving female high school graduate in Saugerties. Serving on this year's scholarship committee were Mrs. Patrick Buonfiglio, Mrs. Edward Jabs, and Mrs. John Janeczek.

Britisher Reaches Miami, 6,000-Miles in Rowboat

MIAMI (AP) - "I've got a man here who says he just rowed from England," the U.S. immigration officer said into the telephone. "And he doesn't have a visa."

Having received approval from his superior, the officer hung up and issued a 90-day visiting permit to Britisher Sidney Genders.

Genders had just completed a 6,000-mile solo pull across the Atlantic in a rowboat 19 feet, 9 inches long.

His welcoming party was the crew of a police patrol boat. They directed him to U.S. customs and immigration officers. Genders, 51, said he made the trip to show that a man isn't washed up at 50.

The sturdy-built Britisher finished the voyage from Penzance, England, to Miami in 166 rowing days.

He made stops at Las Palmas in the Canary Islands and Antigua in the British West Indies.

He said he covered an average of 56 miles a day during the final leg of the journey from Antigua to Miami.

"I didn't intend to call at Antigua, but I needed water," Genders said. "I had my water containers under the seat and the constant chafing from the movement wore them through. I lost the last 20 gallons about 400 miles north of Antigua. I made the 12 days into Antigua on rainwater."

The muscular rower, who is 6 feet 1, said he dropped from 200 pounds to 185 during the long pull.

Genders said he closed out a construction business in Birmingham—"I built shops, offices and houses"—to launch his adventure.

He has a son, 28, and a 21-year-old daughter.

Genders said that when he reached Las Palmas "I got a letter from my wife's solicitors saying that she had divorced me for desertion."

They had been separated for seven years, he said.

Agnew Plans Many Campaign Speeches

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon says he has no plans for campaign speeches this fall.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has lots of them.

His office says the vice president's calendar for September and October, when the congressional and senatorial contests are in full sway, is rapidly filling with speaking dates.

Anyone who has followed the popularity polls can see why Agnew's help is much sought after in this election year with 435 seats in the House and 35 in the Senate at stake.

Nixon told newsmen in Belleville, Ill., Thursday he feels he can best serve Republican candidates by making "as good a record as possible in Washington."

Any presidential involvement in the campaign, he said, will depend on international developments. "I have no plans for any speeches in October," he said.

Agnew's office says "an intensive campaign schedule is being arranged for most of those two months."

It is working in close cooperation with the Republican National Committee, and the campaign committees in the House and Senate.

The vice president proved to be a bigger drawing card than anyone thought in the spring and early summer when he crisscrossed the country, speaking at fund-raising affairs and throwing his most controversial jabs.

His role in political leadership was worked out by Nixon and Agnew in the early days of the administration and even before they came into office. The matter came up in their discussions of the role of the vice president in many areas.

What Agnew will do for his President is much the same as Nixon did for President Eisenhower. As vice president, Nixon took over most of the campaigning and there was talk then that Eisenhower was taking the high road and Nixon the low.

Women Happy Over Ruling

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — The two Syracuse women who won a federal court suit against the men-only policy of McSorley's ale house in Manhattan said Thursday night they were intended to continue the fight. "I'm ecstatic," said Faith R. Seidenberg, a well-known local lawyer who specializes in civil rights cases.

"This is an enormous victory for all women," said Karen De-Crow, a law student and unsuccessful candidate for mayor of Syracuse on the Liberal party ticket last year.

Mrs. Seidenberg said she expected McSorley's to appeal Thursday's decision, but the women planned a "victory drink" at the bar Monday.

The Hotel Syracuse Motor Inn "will be our next target," Mrs. Seidenberg said. Mrs. De-Crow promised to join in any action against the inn. Both are members of the National Organization for Women.

A previous suit against the inn, for not serving unescorted women at the cocktail lounge bar, was unsuccessful.

McSorley's for years had stoutly maintained its policy of excluding women, but Judge Walter R. Mansfield pointed out that it is a public place, not a private club, and that the preference of some patrons for male companionship is not justification for barring women under the equal protection clause.

In granting summary judgment, Mansfield said the pictures of bars as dens of iniquity and of women as delicate creatures in need of protection from the rough and tumble of unvarnished humanity will no longer justify sexual separatism in the tavern.

Ellenville Street Plan Takes Effect on Sunday

By JON POWERS

ELLENVILLE — Ellenville's controversial one-way street plan, which is seen by some as a cure-all for that town's longed-for big city feeling, and by others as a fatal stab into the wallet for Canal and Center street businessmen, will go into effect at 5 a.m. Sunday morning, according to Village Manager Lawrence E. Eyres.

The plan will go into effect Sunday morning, said Eyres, so that area residents can get used to the situation during light traffic conditions. The plan will be operated on an experimental basis until complete studies can be made to determine its feasibility.

The proposal, which drew sharp cries of protest from village merchants, was first suggested by some that the plan be postponed until the end of the tourist season.

Despite the complaints, a general "wait and see" attitude from most Ellenville residents.

Under the newly adopted plan, Center Street will be one-way eastbound from Bloomer Street to Church Street, one-way southbound from Bloomer Street, in turn, will be Avenue to Canal Street and Avenue to Canal Street, which has been designated one-way northbound from Canal Street to Maple Avenue.

It was also decided to restrict parking on Market Street to one side only.

The plan, initially scheduled to go into effect June 15, was delayed because of the absence of directional signs and markers. It was learned that the directional signs were obtained Thursday and that signposts had been erected on Wednesday.

Panelists will be Anthony R. Triulzi, administrator of Kingston Hospital, who serves as president of the Board of Directors of the Blood Bank and Dr. N. Richard Gershon, associate director of the Kingston City Laboratory, who is secretary of the Blood Bank's board. Moderator will be John R. Warren.

The program is one of a series of monthly panel discussions produced by the Medical Society of the County of Ulster and presented as a public service by WGHQ.

Farm Bureau Board Asks for Probe

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — The board of directors of the 165-member Ulster County Farm Bureau has called for a state investigation of what it terms the "weak administration" at the State University College at New Paltz.

In a letter this week to Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, Chancellor Samuel Gould of the State University of New York, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and Sen. Jay P. Rolison, the board said it would like to "go on record as being very much against the destruction of property or dismissal of classes at New Paltz State University, during the past school semester."

Feeling that immediate action was imperative, the board, meeting at the home of the Farm Bureau president, Harold Sashin in Ellenville, June 8, "didn't hesitate" to compose the letter feeling that it represented the sentiments of the membership, many of whom expressed interest in having the matter become a statewide issue of the Farm Bureau at its annual meeting in the fall, according to a spokesman for the group.

The letter states further that "we feel that the weak administration at New Paltz and other state universities is responsible for the problems that have arisen therefore we would like a state investigation so there will be no recurrences next year."

"We would like to see policies written and enforced that would take criminal action against people living on campus."

"These and other policies should protect the taxpayers property and insure students, who want to learn, the opportunity of an education."

"We would like to be informed of what definite action will be taken in this regard."

Funds Sought to Combat Gypsy Moths

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Several state lawmakers, dismayed by the damage of Gypsy Moths on forestlands in southeastern New York, have called for an emergency fund within the Environmental Conservation Department to help combat sudden outbreaks of such pests. They told reporters Thursday after a tour of the ravaged area that the state was not doing enough to meet the problem.

Personnel of the Environmental Conservation Department sprayed much of the area but makers on a tour of woodlands between Ellenville and the New Jersey state line where he reported that more than 60,000 acres had been defoliated.

"You could stand in the woods and hear the dropping of the insects—there were so many of them," said Assemblyman Donald Mitchell of Herkimer.

"You would fly over miles and miles of green and all of a sudden you would see a brownish-red strip for miles of trees without leaves," said Assemblyman Neil Kelleher of Troy.

Gilman said the infestation was so bad that the pests are covering sides of houses.

The damage is done by the caterpillar stage of the moth, which made its way from Europe last century and has few natural enemies.

Conservation Department personnel have imported the Kuwanae fly, an insect about the size of a pinhead, to feed on the caterpillars but it may be another five years before it becomes acclimated to southeastern New York.

In the meantime, the department has tried to kill the pest through spraying, although it poses problems. Spraying by air is possible only under certain conditions and the pesticide must reach the pest early in its caterpillar development to be effective.

The pesticide DDT is most effective, but the department has dropped its use because of harmful side effects. The department now is spraying with Sevin, but has found that it is temporarily toxic to bees.

On the trip were Gilman, Kelleher, Mitchell, Assemblyman Clarence D. Lane of Windham and Fred Droms of Rexford, all ported the Kuwanae fly, an insect about the size of a pinhead, to feed on the caterpillars but Committee, which Lane heads.

Penn Central RR Bankruptcy: Some Good and Some Bad News

By TIM SCHUSTER

Penn Central means that taxes will not be paid, the local increase of $246,600 over the current program. This means that 10.5 per cent of the state's personal income tax revenue will be used to provide for enriched per capita aid program, and 10.5 per cent will be distributed among the local governments.

The impact on Dutchess County would give Poughkeepsie $625,000 more; Beacon $191,000 more; the Towns of Red Hook an increase of $33,000; Rhinebeck $24,000, and others ranging from the Town of Poughkeepsie $240,000 down to the Town of Milan $3,000.

Villages will receive increases of $4,000 in Rhinebeck; $3,000 in Red Hook; $2,000 in Tivoli; $1,000 in Millerton; $6,000 in Pawling; $5,000 in Millbrook; $15,000 in Wappingers; and $200 in Fishkill.

There is some good news and governments are looking for some way to gain these sums through intercession to the federal government. The good news is a breakdown of estimated increases in returns to towns and villages under the state's new revenue sharing program, hailed by Governor Rockefeller as "the single greatest advance in the fiscal relationship between the state and its local governments."

The state will return about $598,500,000 to local governments.

These estimates are based on computerized projections of the Office of Planning Coordination and supplied by the state Division of the Budget.

Pays $50 Fine

Matthew Gass, 26, of 11 Surrey Lane, Wappingers Falls, pleaded guilty Thursday before Kingston, special City Judge George A. Beck to a charge of speeding. He was fined $50. A charge of being an unlicensed operator was dismissed when Gass produced a license in court.

TRAGEDY IN NEW YORK — Fire and rescue units work through debris after a fire escape ladder pulled away from a building under renovation on West 14th Street in New York City Thursday and plunged to the ground. An unidentified man was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Vincent's Hospital and two other persons were reported injured. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Wimbledon Form Holding Up

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The heavily criticized seeding committee of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships was smiling today. That's because 11 of their 16 selections made it into the fourth round of the men's singles, with one more still to play.

"That's not a bad score in these days of open tennis, with contract professionals and all competing," said Capt. Mike Gibson, the tournament referee. "It's a pretty tough field when you look down the list of entries." The promoter-controlled stars took nine of the last 16 places.

They would have had another but for 24-year-old Tom Gorman, of Seattle, who sprang the biggest upset of the tournament Thursday by knocking out Cliff Drysdale of South Africa 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

The most controversial seedings, bitterly criticized by some stars who were left out of the list, were three European clay court specialists. But one of them, Ilie Nastase of Romania, did the committee proud by reaching the last 16 with a five-set victory over South Africa's Terry Ryan.

The other two European seeds, Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia and Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia, are out.

Franulovic, all at sea on Wimbledon's fast, sun-baked turf, succumbed 3-6, 2-6, 0-6 to Bob Carmichael of Australia who shared the spotlight with Gorman.

Meanwhile the big guns—Rod Laver and John Newcombe of Australia and Arthur Ashe, the U.S. Davis Cup star from Richmond, Va.,—also advanced.

But Laver showed he is not completely invulnerable. Frew McMillan of South Africa, took a set from him before the reigning champion won 6-2, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Newcombe, seeded to meet Laver in the final, hammered another Australian, Owen Davidson, 9-7, 6-3, 7-5.

Ashe, using his head and varying his service returns skillfully, downed the Egyptian left-hander, Ismael El Shafel, 6-3, 6-1, 2-6, 6-0.

Besides Gorman and Ashe, three Americans were through to the last 16—Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., Stan Smith of Los Angeles, and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif.

Another American, Clark Graebner of New York, still had to play his third match against Premjit Lal of India.

Three American-Australian battles shaped up in today's fourth round.

Gorman, the giant killer, went after another famous star—Ken Rosewall, who was a finalist here back in 1954.

Riessen faced Tony Roche, powerful Australian left-hander who was the finalist in 1968.

Smith, recently back in the game after a troublesome shoulder injury, had to play Roy Emerson, Wimbledon champion in 1964 and 1965.

Only one other fourth round match was scheduled for today—between Carmichael and Bob Hewitt, South African Davis Cup star.

The races, sponsored by the Tappan Zee Racing Association, attracted a large throng of spectators and was described as a rousing success by race officials.

Madora Dares Runs First at Raceway

MONTICELLO—outfooted Levi Harner's pace setting Tar Boy filly, Avon Melody, to victory in 2:06.1, only a fraction off the 2:06 record held by both.

Harner sent Avon Melody to the front immediately, with most of the contenders settling in behind them. Watcha Dream (Lawrence Capasso) was parked on the outside until he started to falter at the five-eighths pole. Smitty Stanton (Vincent Culhane) moved on the leader at the three quarters, along with Buck Passer (Gerry Kazaier), but it was Madora Dares, saving ground along the rail, who had the closing kick which enabled her to pace away from Avon Melody and Smitty Stanton to win by three-quarters of a length and return $5.40 as second choice, with the popular 3-1 perfecta paying $13.20.

A pair of wire-to-wire performances marked the successful daily double performances of the winners of the first and second races, Peppermint Red, co-owned and driven by George Oakes, scored decisively in the opener, returning $10.40, while Colonel Ben (Bob Camper) prevailed over fast-closing I'll Be (Ken McNutt) for a $5.00 payoff, completing a $44.60 combination.

Peppermint Red trotted out the gate like a free-for-all pacer, securing the lead in the first turn. Oakes was in the driver's seat from there on, repulsing the strong threat at the half by former employer, George Gilmour, driving favored Ignite. Gilmour ducked back in the three hole where he remained for the rest of the mile. Peppermint Red trotted merrily on to lead the three-year-old Sharpshooter colt, Marshooter, to the wire by two and one-half lengths, as Ignite held on for third in the 2:10.3 mile.

Hinson's 5-Under-65 Leads

AURORA, Ohio (UPI) — leading money winner Lee Young Larry Hinson, who says he is spending a little time thinking while swinging the golf club, fired a first-round, 5-under-par 65 to take a one-stroke lead into the second 18 holes today of the $15,000 Cleveland Open.

Dave Hill tried the same technique on the 6,661-yard Aurora Country Club course Thursday but wasn't as successful. Despite a record-breaking 29 on the front, nine, his 31 over the last half of the course grouped him at 66 with four others for second place. "That's what comes of hinking out there," Hill moaned later. "I was trying to play it smart and prepare to settle for a bogey. If I'd just taken a five iron and whaled the ball, I'd probably have landed near the green."

Four Golfers Score Aces

Four Ulster County golfers, including a Woodstock woman, have scored a hole-in-one so far in the 1970 golf season. Three of the aces were posted at Wiltwyck Country Club.

Rachel Harris of Woodstock Country Club aces Woodstock's famed No. 4 par-three water hole with a perfect 5-iron shot. The distance from the women's tee is 135 yards.

Bobby Abramsky, a 13-year-old Wiltwyck junior, got his ace on the 177-yard par 3 eighth hole with a 3-iron. Holes-in-one don't come easily there.

Two other Wiltwyck members—Louis Salzmans, the superintendent of schools, and Allen Dumas aced the tough par-3 171-yard 16th hole, the so-called "finishing hole." Salzmans used a 4-iron, Dumas a 4-wood.

Belfast Rejects Plea, Prison for Bernadette

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Belfast Appeal Court ruled today that Bernadette Devlin must go to prison.

A warrant for her arrest was to be issued later today. The court rejected an application from Miss Devlin, the youngest member of the British House of Commons, to appeal to the House of Lords against a six-month sentence given her for incitement to riot and rioting. The House of Lords is Britain's highest court.

The 23-year-old Roman Catholic militant was first sentenced in Londonderry last Dec. 22 for her activities during street fighting last fall.

On Monday, Northern Ireland's lord chief justice, Lord McDermott, rejected her appeal against the sentence. Her defense lawyer then applied for permission to take the appeal to the Lords in London, and this was turned down today.

Miss Devlin won re-election in the British general election last week, and she is not expected to lose her seat because she goes to prison. The House of Commons will have to vote whether she remains a member, and it seemed most unlikely that with the threat of renewed religious warfare hanging over Northern Ireland, the legislators would inflame the Roman Catholic minority by ousting the young woman who has come to be known as their Joan of Arc.

An attorney for Miss Devlin, Tony Somers, told newsmen: "There is no legal move we can make now. We can only plead for a free pardon."

The court took 16 minutes to reject the application for leave to appeal to the Lords in London.

Gasoline bombs and rocks were thrown at police during the riots last fall and Miss Devlin subsequently was convicted on three charges of incitement to riot and one of committing riotous behavior.

Lord McDermott said at Monday's hearing: "She did what she did, it was submitted, because she believed honestly and reasonably that the police were about to assault people and damage property in the Bog-side."

Dismissing her appeal then, he said Miss Devlin's intervention in the rioting "were far too aggressive and premature to rank as justifiable efforts to prevent the prospective danger of the police getting out of hand."

33,000 Hear Billy Graham At Shea Stadium

NEW YORK (UPI)—Evangelist Billy Graham told some 33,000 persons Thursday night the problem of rebellious youth was not caused by parents or the government but by the nature of America's "permissive society."

"All you have to do is go down to Times Square or go through a university campus and you see the evidence of where this permissiveness has brought us," the 51-year-old Southern Baptist preacher said.

Addressing his followers gathered in Shea Stadium on the second day of his five-day New York crusade, Graham blamed a combination of "the real social problems of war, poverty, racism and pollution" and the "rebelliousness of the human heart" for the unrest that has closed college and university campuses throughout the country.

"There is no legal move we can make now. We can only plead for a free pardon."

The court took 16 minutes to reject the application for leave to appeal to the Lords in London.

Gasoline bombs and rocks were thrown at police during the riots last fall and Miss Devlin subsequently was convicted on three charges of incitement to riot and one of committing riotous behavior.

Leading the seminar is Robert L. Kunzig, chairman of the President's Federal Procurement Task Force on Minority Business Enterprises.

Lenefsky Says State Errs On Air and Water Laws

KINGSTON — David Lenefsky, Democratic-Liberal candidate for state senator from Ulster and Dutchess Counties, charged Thursday night that the state has failed to energetically enforce air and water anti-pollution laws.

Speaking to the Ulster County Action for Clean Air Committee, Lenefsky said, "it is particularly difficult for the New York State Legislature, as it currently operates, to play an important role in curbing pollution."

"The state requirement for automobile exhaust control systems on all new cars is useless and not enforced because it is weaker than federal legislation," Lenefsky said.

"The state prohibition against open burning in local refuse disposal sites is not seriously being prosecuted," Lenefsky said. "It took the state years to crack down on open burning in his home town of Olive."

"The state regulation controlling the emissions from cement and lightweight aggregate plants has failed to reduce the severe damage citizens in the northern part of Ulster and Dutchess are suffering from these industries," Lenefsky said.

Lenefsky gave the audience a seven page paper entitled "What You Can Do to Improve Your Environment." The paper lists over 75 suggestions how the citizen can help protect the natural environment — he said he would supply additional copies to anyone who contacted him in West Shokan.

San Antonio, Tex. (AP) — A Navy jet trainer plane crashed into a residential area Thursday night and careened into two houses, destroying both. Authorities said four persons were killed and about a dozen injured.

Reports of a fifth death were erroneous, police said. Authorities said the plane, a TF9J Cougar, was making a practice landing at Kelly Air Force Base when it fell into Southwest 41st Street on San Antonio's West Side and skidded into the two houses on the north side of Luz Avenue. The houses caught fire.

The bodies of an instructor and a student pilot aboard the jet were found in the street, officers said, and there were two bodies in a house.

Martin Latson, about 10, a resident of the neighborhood, was taken to Bexar County Hospital in critical condition. Four other persons were taken to a hospital. The other injured were burned; apparently while fighting the fire.

Fire Destroys Chicken House

Forty firefighters in command of Chief Edward Kelder, fought flames Thursday night that destroyed a frame chicken house on a farm on Samsonville Road about one mile off Route 209 in this community.

Volunteers succeeded in saving a house and a large frame barn that were located not far from the burning building. Chief Kelder said that when fire units from Accord and Kerhonkson arrived the structure was completely involved in fire.

Kelder said the names of the owners of the property were not known at this time. The cause of the blaze was not determined. Fire units were back in service at about 10:30 p. m.

Meanwhile, Woodstock firemen were dispatched to the home of Donald Kelly on Ellen Drive in Zena early today after Introducing A Used Car Guarantee...

It Doesn't Come With Every Car

It's a 100% guarantee. Not one of those "we pay-half-you-pay-half deals."

And it comes only with used cars that pass the Volkswagen 16 point Safety and Performance test.

We also guarantee it 100% repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts for 30 days or 1,000 miles.

What kind of cars get our guarantees? All kinds.

Chevy's, Fords, Ramblers, VW's. (We get all kinds of trade-ins for new Volkswagens.)

So, the next time somebody tries to sell you a used car that's "just like new," ask about the guarantee. Then remember us.

No, our used cars aren't "just like new." No used car can be. But no used car could be in better shape, either.

Dear Abby

Anybody Can Err...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-S.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: This is the third time I've written to you about my problem. I tore the other letters up, but I am determined to mail this one.

A while ago, I overheard my clergyman talking to a young woman who is a member of his congregation. (She is married and has children, too.) He told her it was all over between them, and that if his wife hadn't been in the hospital it never would have happened. He said they should go on as though nothing had happened.

I was so shocked, I could hardly believe my ears. This minister has done so much for the community and is so loved and respected by all who know him. He also has a lovely wife and family.

I told my husband about it, and he said we all make mistakes and I should keep quiet because if this ever got out it would hurt the church.

Now I can't even look at that worthless man without thinking what a hypocrite he is to preach about "honor and fidelity." I would like to be able to forgive and forget, but I just can't do it. I have lost all faith in him. Can you advise me?

DEAR DISILLUSIONED: I think your husband has the right attitude. Clergymen are not saints. They are men with all the human frailties that men are heir to. One swallow doesn't make a summer. And one flaw doesn't make a man worthless. You CAN forgive if you sincerely want to, which you seem unwilling to do. AND THAT'S your problem!

DEAR ABBY: This isn't really a "problem," it's a question:

When you have overnight guests, and they don't specify that they want to be up at a certain time and no arrangements have been made by either party prior to bedtime, is it proper etiquette for the hosts to get up before the guests? This happened recently, and we thought it rather unusual since we more or less took it for granted that they wanted to sleep in since there were no plans for them to leave early. By the time I had gotten up they were already sitting at the kitchen table.

WONDERING: DEAR WONDERING: Genuine hospitality is making guests feel as comfortable as possible. (I hope you didn't let your "wonderment" show.) But when no mention is made of what time the guests will be served, the guests get up whenever they feel like it. Yours did. You shouldn't have expected them to stay under cover until you were up and about.

DEAR ABBY: In answer to DOUBLE IN SPADES who had problems with a man who tried to play "footsies" with her under the bridge table:

I find that whenever a pass is made under the table or over the table, the best way of handling it is to openly make a remark about it as though it were an accident, such as, "O, excuse me, did I kick your foot—or bump your knee?" Then move your leg. This will let everyone at the table know that you are not a footsie player.

This also works with men who try to get overly affectionate. I say so everyone can hear, "Hey, are you making a play for me? You MUST be kidding." Sure cools them off fast.

Carroll Righter's horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

The morning is fine for what ever has to do with the lighter side of life, or where solving any problem with a loved one is concerned. But the afternoon and evening find a very upsetting influence in effect that makes most everyone want to make dramatic changes or break up what has been okay. Maintain self-control.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Show that you have a sense of humor and are thoughtful with others. Lighten their burdens. Make them happier. Don't break up any present setup. Do what will add to present vitality.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Morning is a good time to please others. Later, get busy on important business matters. Be sure you do not make unkind remarks later in the day. Keep calm and all is well.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Morning is a good time to get the backing you need to be happy with friends. Be careful in social life later in the day. Forget those personal desires that are bad for you. Be wise. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Accept that favor from a bigwig this morning but take care you safeguard reputation later in the day. Don't take any chances with those who are important in your life. Don't make unwise remarks.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be careful you do not go off on any tangent that could cause you a great deal of trouble. Study the information you need to improve career. Make sure that you do not force any issues with others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Give mate a word of approval before noon and then be sure to follow through with responsibilities that need immediate handling. You have a hunch about advancing more quickly, but it is erroneous. Forget it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Backing an associate is wise instead of working angles that could bring about a good deal of trouble if you are caught. Be sure to keep promises you have made. Be precise and all is fine.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into those jobs you have to do in the morning enthusiastically. After having made an accurate schedule of activities for the afternoon, allow for emergencies. Co-workers are not in a good humor. Ignore them. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Morning is a good time for the entertainment that you desire, but there are likely to be hitches later in the day. Allow for such. Be cheerful with others. Make them feel better. Be clever.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You want more harmony at home, but you have to do something constructive about it. Rid yourself of whatever it is that is causing the trouble. Be quiet about it, but firm.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contact right persons this morning to bring about fine results. Then spend some time thinking about the future. Be careful in driving and speaking and you protect yourself at crucial times. Be wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do whatever will improve the appearance of surroundings after daybreak, but be careful later you are not extravagant or the opposite extreme. Wait for a better time to contact that advisor. He or she is not free at this time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fast-acting young people who jumps into anything almost without thinking. So be sure to think early and then act. Don't rely on emotions. Give the finest education possible in order to bring out the fine mental ability in this chart. Prepare for the adult life of your progeny which could pose problems. Give ethical training early, too.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for July is now ready. For a copy, send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast, The Daily Freeman, Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

NEW DEAL: (Q.) What do you do when your mother has a boy friend who is rotten and no good? She is planning to marry him. I just don't see how she can stand him.

At my party they watched the boys and girls like hawks to see that no one did any kissing at all. Then my friends and I went outside.

I came back in for a minute and found my mom and her friend embracing.

What do you think of that? I think it was sickening.—Dreading the Future in Houston.

(A.) No doubt this man who arouses such strongly negative feelings in you is just as concerned about having to get along with you as you are about having to get along with him.

It will take giving and forgiving from all three of you to make this new arrangement work.

Try to forgive him for having human faults and weaknesses. Your real father had faults, you know, even though you may not have noticed them.

GLOVES: (Q.) I am going to a formal summer dance. My gown is sleeveless.

Should I wear gloves? If so, what length?—Cynthia in Salem, N. J.

(A.) Shortie or above-the-elbow white gloves will go with your dress.

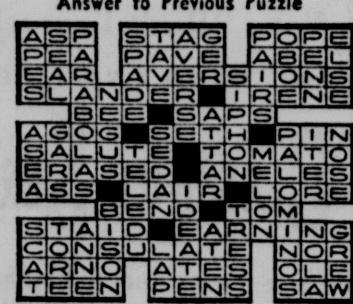

Leather or smooth, dressy fabric will look better than cotton.

Avoid lace gloves. They would make your outfit look too fussy.

'Happy Days'—Unhappy Hour

NEW YORK (AP) — "Happy Days," CBS' summer replacement for Jim Nabors, had its premiere Thursday night and was an unhappy hour. It may make a little television history by infuriating the older members of the audience while boring the younger ones.

The show opened with Louis Nye, in Busby Berkeley white evening clothes, announcing "I am the 1930s—and welcome to those happy days."

This invitation gave a lot of people a chance to recall how happy they were in those depression days. From there the program tried to satirize and romanticize the period at approximately the same time. It kidded and camped old songs, apparently on the theory that the young viewers would be amused while the old folks would be bathed in nostalgic memories upon hearing "Three Little Fishies."

The catch-all devices may have sounded pretty good when devised but they didn't work out.

It was a very busy show. A couple of fellows kept popping up with marvelous impersonations of Laurel and Hardy although they were not particularly funny. That man who imitates W. C. Fields in the commercials was hired to appear with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy but the dialogue lacked the wit and vinegar of the old radio show feud. A maladroitness escape artist whirled in a bag through much of the hour. Bob and Ray, funny guys on their own time, were mired in a spoof of a forgotten old radio program.

A pair of dancers imitated Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers—scarcely a good subject since the old Astaire and Rogers films are all over television in reruns. The crowning bad taste was in presenting performers like Helen O'Connell, Ray Eberle and drummer Buddy Rich out of context. Miss O'Connell and Eberle, for instance, stood in front of a band and sang some of their prewar hits, including "Tangerine." They played it straight, then the show cut away to some sniggering material suggesting it was all elderly square stuff.

It was big on color—fellows in dinner jackets and small, neat bow ties, big radio microphones and even saxophone solos from the band. Louis Nye, who didn't have much to do and seemed uncomfortable doing it, acted as host-announcer.

Even by hot weather standards, the program was something less than TV's finest hour.

Meanwhile, this viewer will turn the television monitoring over to Jerry Buck during a four-week vacation, then resume from Hollywood.

Blackwood Can Be Detrimental

By Oswald and James Jacoby

in clubs. He had complete plans for what to bid if partner showed one ace. He couldn't know what to do if North showed two.

Six spades fell by the way-side in a matter of seconds. West opened the jack of clubs and the defense took the first two tricks.

Nothing can touch six diamonds or six no-trump if played by North. We don't know if they would have reached one of these nice contracts if South had bid five hearts instead of four no-trump.

This is a very hard hand to bid under any circumstances, but we do know that North might well have tried six diamonds over that five-heart bid and South might have passed. We do know that four no-trump surely led to the wrong contract.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The Blackwood convention is such an important part of expert bidding that no player can afford to have it out of his bidding equipment.

Like any useful gadget it can be abused. Thus, there are certain rules for Blackwood use that you should endeavor to follow religiously. One is not to use it with a void or with a worthwhile doubton in an unbid suit. Another is not to use it unless you know exactly what you will do depending on how many aces your partner shows you.

South has every right to bid again after his partner's jump to four spades since they were playing this bid as a good hand.

His choice of Blackwood four no-trump was a very bad one. He had a worthless doubton

Navy Jet Bombs Ack-Ack Site in N. Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI)—A U.S. Navy jet bombed an anti-aircraft site deep inside North Vietnam in the first American air strike north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) in a month, the U.S. Military Command said today.

Military spokesmen said the pilot of the A7 Corsair fighter-bomber was ordered to attack the site Thursday when anti-aircraft gunners took "hostile actions" against the reconnaissance aircraft it was escorting.

In Cambodia, military spokesmen reported Communist forces launched a full-scale attack before dawn today on Kompong Speu, the major town on the highway linking the capital of Phnom Penh with the country's only deep sea port and oil refinery.

Spokesmen said the attack began with an assault on a Cambodian military officers barracks on the southern side of the town, then spread to other areas on its outskirts. Cambodian troops were reported fighting from defensive positions around the edge of the town.

Kompong Speu is 25 miles southwest of Phnom Penh and the only highway from the capital to the port city of Kompong Som, passes through it.

Several hours before the attack on Kompong Speu, Communists attacked a former royal capital of Cambodia, Oudong, and the nearby Longvek military garrison and depot 20 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

Military spokesmen said the Communists were beaten back in that attack. Two Cambodian troops were killed and seven wounded in the fighting, they said, and Communist losses were reported as 24 killed and wounded.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command reported the loss of two American aircraft earlier this month over Laos and said total aircraft losses in the war since Jan. 1, 1960, had passed the 7,000 mark.

In fighting in South Vietnam, the command reported 10 Americans killed and 26 wounded in two battles and Communist mortar attacks. And another battalion of the 1st Air Cavalry Division was withdrawn today, spokesmen said, reducing American troops strength there to about 6,000 four days before the deadline for total withdrawal.

The Communists opened an attack on a unit of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade near Saigon with a mortar barrage, then moved in with rocket grenades and automatic weapons fire for a battle in which five Americans were killed and 16 wounded. The Viet Cong force withdrew leaving behind three bodies, after U.S. jet fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships joined the fight.

A night encampment of U.S. 101st Airborne Division paratroopers came under similar attack 21 miles southwest of Hue. Four Americans were killed and five wounded before helicopter gunships and artillery salvos repulsed the Viet Cong, who suffered no known losses.

In the air war, B52 bombers concentrated on targets in South Vietnam. Military spokesmen said the Stratofortresses, which have been blasting Communist supply lines in Cambodia and Laos, flew four missions early today in the highlands area southwest of the northern coastal city of Da Nang.

Aside from the Communist attack near Phnom Penh, there was little fighting reported Thursday in Cambodia.

All but one of the six highways leading from Phnom Penh to provincial capitals remained open early today, spokesmen said. The highway north of Phnom Penh, was closed.

The Cambodian government announced a general mobilization decree Thursday under which all able-bodied men and women from 18 to 60 must perform military service or join supporting organizations. All citizens under the decree also will be subject to military laws and regulations.

A PRESIDENTIAL WAVE IN ST. LOUIS

(UPI Telephoto)

The Cambodian Talkathon — A Move to Blunt the Critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans, having agreed to another effort at a full-scale debate on Nixon's Southeast Asia policy.

But Allott introduced his proposal as an amendment to the foreign military sales measure that has been the vehicle for the current debate on the U.S. role in Cambodia.

Under the agreement reached Thursday to wrap up the seven-week Cambodia talkathon, Allott's amendment will be voted on Monday. This eliminates the possibility of the extended debate the Democrats wanted, and Allott says his measure will be defeated.

The motives behind Allott's amendment drew expressions of outrage from the sponsors of the original proposal. "Members are offended by these tactics," McGovern said after Allott introduced his amendment.

The Allott amendment is the second GOP attempt to steal the thunder of administration opponents. The Senate Wednesday voted 81 to 10 to repeal the 1964 Tonkin Gulf resolution which former President Lyndon Johnson used to escalate the war.

Should the Republican-sponsored amendment get through the House—as now appears likely—it would give President Nixon a chance to make a symbolic gesture of his desire to wind down the war.

It also would take much of the sting out of a separate resolution repealing the Tonkin Gulf measure which administration foes had also planned to debate at length later in the summer.

Allott moved shortly after agreement was reached for a final vote on the military sales measure at 4 p.m. Tuesday—the very day President Nixon said he would have all U.S. troops out of Cambodia.

While denying they were stalling, Republicans have managed to keep debate going with one amendment after another until President Nixon had a chance to fulfill his pledge that troops would be out of Cambodia by June 30.

Two hours before the final vote, the Senate will vote on the crucial amendment sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, that would bar use of funds to support almost any kind of military activity in Cambodia without prior consultation with Congress.

With the legal significance of the Cooper-Church amendment somewhat in doubt after adoption of several amendments to it, it is expected to pass handily.

The key vote now appears to be shaping up on the Allott amendment with administration critics planning to try to table it and hold to their intention of bringing it up under the Hatfield and McGovern names later.

Nixon—Something New Each Stop

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP)—President Nixon, returning to the theme of his inaugural address, says it's time to "bring Americans together" instead of "having America torn apart."

This was his appeal to a wildly enthusiastic crowd in St. Louis Thursday as he stopped off en route to his seaside villa here.

Normally a reserved, even remote man, Nixon kept expressing himself during the westward journey in an off-the-cuff style that produced something new at each stop. Some examples:

—While appealing in St. Louis for national unity, racial harmony and a closing of the generation gap, he declared that although some "believe the nation is coming apart at the seams," more should be heard about "what is right about America."

He spoke without text or notes.

—To a handful of newsmen at Scott Air Force Base at Belleville, Ill., he went out of his way to reveal that he plans no 1970 campaign speeches, at least for the foreseeable future, and believes he can do best for Republican candidates by making a good record in Washington.

—Handshaking well-wishers at a Marine air base near here, he disclosed he will make a "final report" Tuesday on the entry of U.S. ground forces in Cambodia. The exact format of the report has not been determined.

—At the same stop, Nixon announced he will appear live on the three major television networks for an hour Wednesday, at 10 p.m. EDT, to answer foreign affairs questions posed by network newsmen John Chancellor of NBC, Eric Sevareid of CBS and Howard K. Smith of ABC.

Nixon even added a social note: He and wife Pat will go to nearby Newport Beach Saturday for the wedding of a niece.

The President was playing host today to some 50 editors, publishers and broadcast industry executives. He arranged for them to be briefed before and after a presidential lunch by Dr. Henry A. Kissinger and other White House foreign policy advisers.

The chief executive's St. Louis speech was delivered in more personal and emotional terms than he normally employs and was prolonged and repeated applause from a crowd of 14,000 attending the 5th anniversary convention of the United States Jaycees.

Although his theme was that "it is time to stand up and speak about what is right about America," he actually adressed himself to some of the country's major problems.

He stated, for example, that the subject of race relations "it is not perhaps discussed as frankly and candidly as it should be." After adding that each individual must make a personal contribution to racial harmony, he declared:

"I believe in the American dream. I have seen it come true in my own life. But speaking also in broader terms, we can fulfill the American dream only when every American has an equal opportunity to fulfill his own dream."

As for the generation gap, Nixon said, "it is certainly no comfort to me" that "a majority of Americans overwhelmingly disapprove of student demonstrations and student strikes."
